Paulist Choir Concert Swells Fund for New Structure in Italian Quarter.

A new settlement house for the Bronx was assured last night by the complete success of the concert given by the Paulist Choir for the benefit of St. Charles Mission Settlement. The concert was given at Hunter Point Palace under a committee headed by St. Charles Mission Settlement. More than $5,000 was realized in contributions and returns on the fair, and the new structure will begin early this spring.

Charged with larceny, Donald McFarland, twenty-four years old, of No. 168 Eighth Avenue, a waiter, unemployed, was locked up in the West 26th Street station last night on complaint of Miss Georgiana Wolf of No. 27 Lowell Street, Waterbury, Conn., a guest at the Hotel Woodstock in West 41st Street, who accused him of snatching a pocketbook containing $12.25 out of her hand on West 26th Street and Fifth Avenue. The police say they found the pocketbook in McFarland's possession.

IN THE REALM OF MUSIC

Galli-Curci Sings in "Boheme" for First Time Here

Quality emerged from its hiding place yesterday and assumed its welcome place on the concert stage. In the afternoon, in Carnegie Hall, the National Symphony appeared for the third time this week and offered a new composition, an overture, "Cyranos de Bergerac," by John Wagenaar, a countryman of Willem Mengelberg, the guest conductor of the orchestra. The composition is an easy going as one pictures things in Holland to be and is grateful to the ear. Alfred Mirovitch, a good pianist, gave a crisp and conventional performance of the piano portion of Grieg's concerto, and then Mr. Mengelberg ventured into the Tchaikowsky pasture by conducting the ever present "Pathetic" symphony. When Mr. Mengelberg gets his grip on the string section of the band he brings out every bit of vibrancy it contains and all of it he puts into the long wall and tragic sorrow the symphony ther aroused the already stirred gathering.

"Louise" was the offering at the Metropolitan Opera House, given by the customary cast. It was sung and acted well enough to deserve extended comment. Add another Mimi to New York's already crowded gallery! She is none other than Mme. Galli-Curci, who appeared here for the first time as this pathetic figure in "La Boheme" at the Manhattan Opera House last night. There are no vocal pyrotechnics with which the famed soprano is accustomed to dazzle, in this simple Puccini character, but it gives Mme. Galli-Curci the opportunity of displaying her skill in legato singing, and her lovely tone put warmth and color into the music. She also was adequately unaffected, coy, gay and pathetic, as occasion demanded, making a well-rounded portrait of the tragic Mimi. The Rudolph was our old friend Alessandro Bonci, whose vocal graces are still among the Manhattan memories left by Mr. Hammerstein. Mr. Bonci is no longer youthful in years, but one would scarcely have known it to watch his light trend and his easy and finished singing last night. Others in the cast were Messrs. Rimini, Lazzari, Deferre, Trevisan and Oliviero and Dorothy Francis as Musetta. The audience would have overflowed into the street had the laws permitted.

CONFESSES SHOOTING WIFE.

Police Say Tragedy Was Outcome of Quarrel Tuesday.

Charged with having killed his wife, Gracia, Louis Laroza, No. 558 57th Street, Brooklyn, was today held without bail in Judge Beetsner's court, Newark. He confessed, according to the police, with having shot her just outside No. 48 Wallace Street, Newark, where they had lived together until Tuesday. Laroza left the house after a quarrel with his wife and went to live in Brooklyn. He returned last night to deliver the keys to other occupants of the building and met his wife, who had come there for the same purpose. The quarrel was renewed and a moment later two shots were fired.

THOUGHT CHIEF WAS BANDIT

Ridgely Park, N. J., Police Head Suspended After Chase.

Chief of Police McElroy of Ridgely Park, N. J., has been suspended on order of Mayor Hunter, after charges were preferred against him by Commissioner Maschke. The charges will not be made public until Chief McElroy has been given a copy, and has had a chance to consult counsel. Maschke said that the town had been getting "a lot of unpleasant notoriety" through the escapades of Chief McElroy. A few days ago, it is alleged, the Chief pursued an automobile in his own car to Ridgely, three miles away. He said that he thought the automobile contained alcohol. The man in the automobile thought he was being pursued by a bandit, stopped, jumped out and ran. Thereupon, it is said, Chief McElroy fired two shots at him.

Two Days of Grace

SEVERAL hundred new friends have been made for The Man's Shop by the suits and overcoats which our regular manufacturers recently supplied to us at one-half their former wholesale prices, and which we offered for less than their actual cost to the manufacturers.

They are, we believe, of the finest ready for service clothes ever produced in America—many of them being year-round weights, light enough for Spring and Summer wear.

Sizes have been seriously broken, but there is still a selection for men of every stature. Suits are $38, $42 and $48; overcoats, $38 and $58—lower than Spring prices can be for similar qualities.

As Spring stocks are arriving, the last of these must be out of The Man's Shop this week. You have only two days more at these prices.
